Professor Raimi Gbadamosi will focus on canon formations, how the idea of Fine Art is defined by canon formation, who is in the canon, and how those accepted make it in. He will use his current exhibition, Cemetery, as the basis of his presentation.

An artist, writer and curator, Raimi Gbadamosi received his Doctorate in Fine Art from the Slade School of Fine Art, London. He is a member of the interdisciplinary research group ‘Afroeuropeans’, University of Leon, Spain, and the ‘Black Body’ group, Goldsmiths College, London. He is on the editorial board of Third Text, and the board of Elastic Residence, London and Relational, Bristol. Gbadamosi currently holds the position of Associate Professor of Fine Art at Wits School of Arts, Johannesburg.
